

EMERGENCY PLANNING COURSE FEMA G-235

A two day course that is designed to help local government develop a planning program that focuses on all-hazard preparedness, response, recovery and mitigation.

A common sense approach is used to assist communities in identifying and planning for hazards that could affect the day to day expectations of a normal routine. It is the objective of proper planning to prevent an unusual situation from developing into an emergency or a disaster.

This course is designed to meet the unique needs of local, state and federal government planners, emergency managers, key public officials and others with an interest in emergency planning.

Non-reimbursable registration fee: $15.00. Please make check payable to "MT DES".

Registration Deadline: Noon, March 15, 2002
